All Army Boxing

Boxers contend to maintain team positions

The All-Army Boxing Championship will be held Jan. 20 and 21 at Barnes Field House. Twenty-six male and three female boxers will battle it out in matched bouts. Boxing begins at 7 p.m. both nights.

The boxers will go toe to toe, punch by punch in four 4-minute rounds competing for slots on the All-Army Boxing Team's World Class Athlete Program.

Champion contenders of All-Army Boxing will move on to the Armed Forces Championships Feb 6 – 11, in California and from there to the World Military Championships, Conseil de International Sports Militaire. This year's CISM will be held in Warendorf, Germany in September.

Head coach of this year's All Army Boxing Team is Basheer Abdullah. Abdullah has coached the Army Team to win nine consecutive Armed Forces Championships. He served as the 2004 Olympic Head Coach and the 2000 Olympic Team Technical Advisor.

Basheer was named the 2002 and 2004 USA Boxing Coach of the Year.

"All Army Boxing is one of the sports in the All Army Sports programs," said Abdullah explaining the concept of the program. "Our mission is simple; train, compete, win and promote a positive image for the Army," he said. Boxing is one of All Army sports' most successful programs Abdullah added.

Abdullah said his goal as coach this year is the same as previous years to develop better Soldiers and better boxers hoping to send them back to their units more fit physically and mentally.

"I'm also hoping I would be able to pick up of some of these Soldiers for the World Class Athlete Program," he said.

So that all Soldiers would have the opportunity to enjoy All-Army boxing, the event is free of charge to everyone.

"We all love All-Army Boxing," said athletic and fitness director Les Woods. "This is a boxing community," he said. "Not only Fort Huachuca, but all of the outlying communities and this is the most top of the line amateur boxing that you're ever going to see."

Returning to the ring as part of the World Class Athlete Program are 1st Lt. Boyd Melson the USA's 2004 CISM gold medalist in the light middleweight division, and Staff Sgt. Christopher Downs, the USA's 2005 CISM bronze medalist in the light heavyweight division.

Spectators can also expect to see new faces this year like new comer 2nd Lt. Khara Keegan. The West Point graduate and Iowa native said she started boxing while in college. Keegan said boxing was mandatory for male cadets and women were required to partici-
